Traditional East Asian healthcare systems have moved rapidly from the fringes of healthcare systems in the West towards the centre over the past 50 years. This change of status for traditional medicines presents their practitioners with both opportunities and challenges as the focus shifts from one of opposition towards one of integration into biomedically dominated healthcare systems. Integrating East Asian Medicine into Contemporary Healthcare examines the opportunities and challenges of integrating East Asian medicine into Western healthcare systems from an interdisciplinary perspective. Volker Scheid and Hugh MacPherson bring together contributions from acknowledged experts from a number of different disciplines - including clinical researchers, Chinese Medicine practitioners, historians, medical anthropologists, experts in the social studies of science, technology and medicine - to examine and debate the impact of the evidence-based medicine movement on the ongoing modernization of East Asian medicines. The book considers the following questions:

- What are the values, goals and ethics implicit within traditional East Asian medical practices?
- What claims to effectiveness and safety are made by East Asian medical practices?
- What is at stake in subjecting these medical practices to biomedical models of evaluation?
- What constitutes best practice? How is it to be defined and measured?
- What are the ideologies and politics behind the process of integration of East Asian medical practices into modern health care systems?
- What can we learn from a variety of models of integration into contemporary healthcare?

The state Kerala, or God's Own Country as its corporate slogan goes, has pioneered health tourism in India. They have made a concerted effort to promote health tourism in a big way, which has resulted in a substantial increase of visitor arrivals into the state. Kerala and Ayurveda have virtually become synonymous with each other. However, though Kerala has strongly focused on Ayurveda and its wide array of treatments and medications, good facilities are also available in the other traditional forms of medicine as well as in modern medical treatment. The bias towards health tourism in Kerala is so strong that Kerala Ayurveda Centers have been established at multiple locations in various metro cities. The health tourism focuses on Kerala's participation in various trade shows and expos wherein the advantages of this traditional form of medicine are showcased. Kerala, has one of the best qualified professionals in each and every field, Allopathy, Dental, Ayurveda etc and this fact has now been realized the world over. Regarding Medical facilities Kerala has the most competent doctors and world class medical facilities. This text book highlights types of health tourism products available at Kerala and gives over all marketing process, risk factors etc. of health tourism.
